

Fathers for Justice U.S.A. (F4JUSA) is a civil rights movement campaigning for a child's right to see both parents and both parent's family's. We are not the first group, but were born from the ideas and philosophies of our brothers across the ocean. Fathers for Justice in the U.K.

We are a group of men and women, fathers and mothers, grand parents, sisters and brothers, who have seen, first hand what has happened to our country and the world.

Children have become a commodity. All it takes is the four magic words, "I want a divorce" and the seven magic words, "In the best interest of the children" and a father is no longer a father. He becomes a visitor, a check book, a statistic, and part of the state and federal budget.

F4JUSA is not a group which discriminates against mothers who are the non custodial parent. The facts however, are the majority of noncustodial parents, are fathers who are struggling to fight the ex-wife and the courts to see their children. We recognize there are mothers out there as well and encourage them to join in our fight for a PARENT'S EQUAL ACCESS TO THEIR CHILDREN.

In this the 21st century, fathers feed, clothe, nurture, and care for their children like no one else can, but that love and attention can be striped away, not just from the father but from the children too.

"Children need both parents"

It should be the law,

"Children need both parents"

it will be the law.

That is what Fathers for Justice will do.

Fathers 4 Justice was formed two years ago this December by Matt O'Connor and Tony Lewis and launched when 200 members dressed as Santa stormed the Lord Chancellors offices in London.

Fathers 4 Justice is a non-violent direct action campaign group using civil disobedience with a touch of humor to campaign on behalf of children to have a loving and meaningful relationship equally with both parents after divorce or separation. A starting point of 50/50 residence. If a parent cannot manage 50%, they will give time away rather than fight to gain time (or access!).

The UK has around 12,000 members. 30% of members are female. Our members consist of non resident mothers, non resident fathers, resident mothers, resident fathers, grandparents, second wives, brothers, sisters and those who were denied access to one of their parents as a child.

We are established in the UK (HQ), Australia, Canada and Holland. The USA is on the launchpad and countdown has begun. We have members and supporters from New Zealand to Vancouver, from Chile/Peru to Alaska and include members in China, Russia, Jordan, Mexico, South America, Southern Africa, Bahrain, much of Europe and Scandinavia.

Protests are pledged in New Zealand, Australia, Malta, Mexico, Holland, South America, Canada and around 10 US states.

2005 will see an unprecedented Rising around the world against family law.
